

Short Bio

Dr. Kittinan Anakamaneer, M.D., M.Env.Sc.

CEO

The Healthcare Accreditation Institute (Public Organization) Thailand

Dr. Kittinan Anakamaneer has a background of a general practitioner. He had been the director of a community hospital in the north of Thailand for 7 years. During that period he went to study in Australia and got a master degree in environmental science from Monash University. In 1995 he moved to work as the Deputy Director of Phrae Province Public Health Office.

In 2005 he moved to work as the Deputy Director of Health Systems Research Institute. Here, his responsibilities included strategy development, financial plan and budget allocation, research management in fields of health promotion, emergency medical service, and network collaboration.

In 2008 he moved to work at The Healthcare Accreditation Institute (Public Organization); HAI as the Chief Operating Officer. His responsibilities covered the supervising accreditation process, surveyor management, and knowledge management and organization development. He has been CEO of HAI since November 2017.
